DID YOU KNOW THAT EACH YEAR THOUSANDS OF ANIMALS BECOME ENTANGLED IN TREE NETTING?

Netting entanglement can result in constriction wounds, abrasions, fractured bones and even death. Any netting which has holes large enough for your pinky finger to fit through, is a danger to wildlife. As flying foxes, birds and reptiles forage for food they get caught in the netting holes. The more they struggle to get free, the more entangled they become. By choosing to leave a tree without netting or making responsible choices at the checkout, netting entanglements can be prevented.
